DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 10-23 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371© of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

3. Claims 10-12,16-19&23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Hirayama et al (US 6,128,434).

Regarding claim 10, Hirayama et al disclose a multilingual recording medium and a reproduction apparatus which can record information such as movie programs, Kara-OK programs, educational programs, and learning programs on a medium such as an optical disk, along with comments, subtitles, speeches and the like in various languages, such that any speech or subtitle (character data) is reproduced in the language selected, comprising:

Art Unit: 2615

a) a reservation information area for storing a reservation information (see Fig.1 and optical disk 100, col.5, lines 18-42); and management information area of the disk shown in Fig.3A&3B; col.8, line 28 to col.10, line 25), here examiner reads reservation information as the information that identifies a program recorded in the disk which is used to reproduce the program;

b) a record information area for storing a record information, wherein the record information is recorded on the record information area based on the reservation information (see Fig.1 and optical disk 100, col.5, lines 18-42; and the data area of the optical disk wherein a plurality of data units (see col.2, lines 13-23) are stored as shown in Fig.3A&3B; col.7, line 50 to col.8, line 27).

Regarding claim 11, Hirayama discloses wherein the recordable medium comprises a disc-shaped type recording medium (see Fig.1 and optical disk 100, col.5, lines 18-42).

Regarding claim 12, Hirayama discloses wherein the reservation information area is located at an inner-circumferential portion of the record information area (see management area of Fig.3A which is formed on the center (innermost) part of the optical disk 100; col.7, lines 50-58).

Art Unit: 2615

Regarding claim 16, Hirayama discloses wherein a plurality of information pieces is recordable in the record information area (see Fig.3B and the plurality of data units (DUT #0 to DUT #n); col.7, line 61 to col.8, line 17).

Regarding claim 17, the claimed limitations of claim 17 are accommodated in the discussions of claim 10 above.

Regarding claim 18, the claimed limitations of claim 18 are accommodated in the discussions of claim 11 above.

Regarding claim 19, the claimed limitations of claim 19 are accommodated in the discussions of claim 12 above.

Regarding claim 23, the claimed limitations of claim 23 are accommodated in the discussions of claim 16 above.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 13-15&20-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hirayama et al in view of Kameo et al (US 6,899,370).

Regarding claim 13, Hirayama fails to explicitly disclose wherein the record information is a television program, and the reservation information indicates a scheduled time for recording the television program on the recording medium.

Kameo et al teach a remote control apparatus for electronic equipment such a video tape recorder having a timer reservation function of recording video images and/or audio sounds of a program, which remote control apparatus causes the electronic equipment to reserve a program by using a telephone line, wherein a VTR 1 has a function of performing a timer reservation recording of a television broadcasting program by means of the wireless remote control method using infrared rays. And, wherein in response to the data inputted from the remote control receiver unit 2 or a program timer reservation operation unit 4 mounted on a VTR 1, a timer unit outputs a command such as a recording start command, a recording end command or the like to a VTR circuit unit 5 when it becomes a set (reserved) time. The desired television broadcasting channel, recording start day and time, recording end day and time, and the like for reservation purposes are displayed on a display unit 6 in accordance with the data inputted from the remote control receiver 2 or the program timer reservation operation unit 4 (see Fig.3 and col.3, lines 13-36). Recording a record information which is a television program wherein the reservation information indicates a scheduled time for recording the television program on a recording medium provides the desirable advantage of recording television programs in advance by using the television program reservation information.

It would have been obvious to modify Hirayama by realizing Hirayama with the means to reserve the recording of television programs in advance by using the television program reservation information, as taught by Kameo, since this provides the desirable advantage of recording television programs in advance by using the television program reservation information.

Regarding claim 14, Kameo further teaches wherein the reservation information comprises at least a channel information, a start time for recording, a stop time for recording and a recording date to recording the television program (see col.3, lines 13-36). It would have been obvious to include at least a channel information, a start time for recording, a stop time for recording and a recording date to the television program reservation information, as taught by Kameo, in order to have a more complete program reservation information.

Regarding claim 15, Kameo further discloses wherein the reservation information further comprises a telerecording (i.e., recording a television broadcast) mode information (see col.3, lines 13-36), here examiner reads the reservation information used in recording of a television broadcast program by using television program reservation information as taught in col.3, lines 13-36 as a telerecording mode information.

Art Unit: 2615

Regarding claim 20, the claimed limitations of claim 20 are accommodated in the discussions of claim 13 above.

Regarding claim 21, the claimed limitations of claim 21 are accommodated in the discussions of claim 14 above.

Regarding claim 22, the claimed limitations of claim 22 are accommodated in the discussions of claim 15 above.

6. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
